A FIT ENDING.

The miserable episode of Judge Tenney's life is that the State of California breathes easier for his death. He was a violent man, feared by a multitude, admired only by apostles and upholders of pistol justice and adherents of the now almost obsolete duello. The dirk and revolver were his arguments. At a time when the touch of a sword should have tempered his spirit he was still a cruc-mitaine, threatening to avenge his legal and political hurts by the shedding of blood. He sowed to the wind and reaped the whirlwind.

There is, apparently, no censure for his slayer. Attorney-General MILLER doubts if Deputy-Marshal NAGLE will ever be brought to trial.

A CRISIS FOR THE TURF.

To make a close gambling institution of the American turf, to its certain degradation and ultimate ruin, as Mr. WITHERS, one of the Monmouth Park owners, seems inclined to do, will not be an easy task.

Horse racing must be open and above-board and honest as the day, or it declines into a mere gambling device, condemnable as "aro" or roulette, and will as surely merit the ban of law and the scorn of decent people. We don't care a rap for the pool-sellers, but we do demand full publicity on the race tracks in the interests of honesty and many thousands who cannot personally attend.

YOU MAKE US TIRED.

FRANK and MONELL, Sheriff and Justice, stop whining. Stop begging your friends not to think ill of you. Stop telling a disgusted public that you can vindicate yourselves.

Stop saying it, and do it. Or else resign. The people don't want you. Nobody would be sorry, save perhaps your precious selves.

CUSTOM, NOT LAW.

Was it a "bid" Gov. SEAY of Alabama was making when he vowed to bring CALHOUN and WILLIAMSON, the Georgia duellists, to justice? He seems to have gotten joyfully over his righteous haste.

Now, they say, nothing can be done until the Cherokee Grant Jury meets.

Oh! They know how to hush these things up in the sunny and chivalrous South. Who has forgotten the mock trial of Dirty McDow for the shooting of Editor DAWSON?

THE LITERARY PET AGAIN.

Eight-year-old JOHN GRADY walked into the constable's house in Kingsland, N. J., Wednesday night, and said calmly, "I've just shot a feller." And he spoke the truth.

He had been reading dime novels and "yearned for large excitement." This dime novel is an ancient invention of the devil. And its life is still lusty.

IT DID NO HARM.

Both leaders in the League race were doubled yesterday, and woundily, too. We can't expect to win always, but if Boston will lose every time we do the Giants will promise to win plenty of days when the Beaneaters don't.

That's our method of getting there.

Mr. SPALDING, of Chicago, must have laughed to see the baseball game that was played on an English cricket ground last week by English cricketers. It must have reminded him of his boyhood days and the mild amusement of "one old cat." The score was 26 to 21.

Good, game old Eurus gone, but he took the Monmouth Handicap with him. If it should prove his last race there will be the pleasant recollection that it was run and won on a sticky track. He was nothing if not a mud horse.

The Teutonia's maiden trip was a flyer. Now nobody will rest until the question of superiority is settled between her and the City of Paris.

COUNTING ON THE COUNTIES.

MR. CROKER DOESN'T THINK THEY'LL BE TRAITORS THIS FALL.

John N. Voorhis, He Says, Is Too Good a Democrat to Help the Republicans to Win the Legislature and Overrule Gov. Hunt—Will Tammany and His Rival Unite on the Local Ticket?

"What will be the attitude of the several political organizations of this city towards each other in the approaching campaign?" This question was propounded to Chamberlain Richard Croker, the oracle of Tammany Hall, by an EVENING WORLD reporter.

Mr. Croker's views on the local political situation are always interesting, for as Tammany's big chieftain will so usually goes the battle.

In view of the present situation of affairs political—the success of the organization which he leads: the apparent ruin of the County Democracy, and, above all, the threat of a union of Republicans and Counties to control the next Legislature—anything Mr. Croker may now have to say on this question possesses more than ordinary interest.

He approached the subject with caution, and declared that it was quite too early to say just what the three organizations will do, and he is not given to prediction.

"I have paid very little attention to the matter as yet," he said.

"But do you think of the rumor of a Republican-County Democracy deal?" was the next question.

"I am disinclined to believe that there will be a general and organized union of the County Democracy with the Republicans. Some local leaders may, to further their own personal ends, do a little trading, but the leaders of the County Democracy are too good politicians to enter into any such alliance."

"I think that Mr. Voorhis is too good a Democrat to sell his party."

"It would be like Samson pulling down the pillars of the temple. The accomplishment of their vengeance would only work their own destruction."

"You can depend on it that the wise heads of the Counties are not going to assist in overthrowing Gov. Hunt's veto. It would be too disastrous to him."

It was also suggested that, with a knowledge of such a deal being made, the delegates to the State Convention by the Counties would find it rather difficult to secure admission to the councils of the Democratic party.

Regarding a possible union of Tammany Hall and the County Democracy on the local ticket, Mr. Croker closed as he opened the interview with the statement that it is "too early to talk about it."

ED MOTT'S OLD SETTLER.

Ed Mott's "Old Settler" yarns have tickled thousands of readers as they were issued in the columns of a newspaper, and those who have been asked to read them will be among the first to hail with joy their publication by Bedford, Clarke & Co. in neat pamphlet form.

The Old Settler belonged to that numerous class who seem to admit that there is something on earth or in heaven which they do not know. Little Pelag, his grandchild, was just an ordinary youngster with an interrogation point on the end of his tongue all the time, and the lessons in "natural history" imparted by his grandchild and recorded by Ed Mott, place the Old Settler at the head of the procession of imagination.

The yarns embrace all sorts of subjects, Pelag asking a foolish question and winding up his tale of most marvelous adventures every time.

The natural history lessons are in backwoods dialect and which cannot always be said of dialect stories—they are never tiresome, never overdone nor underdone, but like the baby's book, are "just what the doctor ordered."

The backwoods smiles, illustrations and comparisons are innumerable and in perfect harmony, and the entire volume is a gem of thought and faithfulness to purpose not discoverable usually in this branch of literature.

The Old Settler is a story of simplicity at Pelag's query: "What are the wild ways of the world?" which had been "put into the boy's head" by his grandchild, who, in turn, had been told the most remarkable yarn of the series, whereby the grandchild of Pelag from his grandchild's point of view, of information as to the trends of the world of the wild, waves, and adds one new glory to his triumphal crown. But it is yours all good.

No D nger.

(From Dr. Croker's Magazine.)

Wife of Arkansawyer—The doctor says you mustn't work none for a month.

Arkansawyer—Does he? Wal, that's a bit unhandy comin' in the crap season, but I reckon he knows what's best.

"And he says you mustn't hunt or fish, either."

"What? The derned old fool? Why, he don't know beans. Huh! Think it's gon' ter hurt a feller ter hunt or fish?"

Wanted To Get Out.

(From The Times.)

Walter—What will you have, sir?

Courtyman—Wal, lemme see. Gimme some lamb or green peas.

(Bawling order)—One lamb and emerald pills.

"Hofon. Gosh! Nightly, a whole lamb! Durn my socks, sh'd I think I would want pills. Lemme out. Which is their nearest cut ter their door? Scat!"

The "Judge's" Cartoonist.

(From The Epoch.)

Bernard Gillam, the chief caricaturist of Judge, is only thirty-two years old. He tried to make a living by painting pictures, but the public would not buy them. Then he snatched his pictures and turned wooden-carver, and discovered that he could draw a caricature that would make a man with the look of a lamb.
